

MINISTERS WILL FINANCE SUMMER VACATION SCHOOL

Plan is to Promote Americanization Among the Foreign Born.

LOCATION TO BE DECIDED

Will Be One of the Mining Communities and in Charge of Rev. David Cleland, Elizabeth, Who Appears Before Association With His Plan.

The Connellsville Ministerial Association this morning, after hearing Rev. David Cleland of Elizabeth on "Americanization," decided to finance his proposition for establishment of a summer vacation school in some place in the county to be selected by the ministerial association, the school to be held during the months of July and August. The matter of the choice of a location in one of the mining districts, will be taken up at an early date.

Rev. D. M. Cleland, in an address this morning to the Connellsville Ministerial Association, spoke in part as follows: "The newcomer to our land is now as ever with us. We came over the same ocean and he is, as ever, a mighty factor in our national prosperity. Yet, strange as it may seem, he is almost the last one thought of in our great benevolence, and we seem to think that he should learn good citizenship automatically while we are helping the whole world outside."

"Managed properly there is no work that gives greater returns than the Americanization of the newcomer. Take, for instance, this summer vacation work. A mere pittance from our great wealth, say $200 from Fayette county, will place a 100 per cent young American student in position to start the hundreds of young men of the 'settlements' on the way to good citizenship. Then, strange as it may seem, that $200 all comes back duplicated many fold in increased knowledge of good citizenship. There are many inexpensive ways to meet these sturdy men and their families. "That makes me restless to get out into the 'settlement' this morning instead of being here. I ought to be financing some summer school of Christian patriotism and running down some operator to support the work. Connellsville would inaugurate by a small pittance from its great prosperity."

Mr. Cleland called attention to the fact that when our forefathers came to America they proceeded to build churches on the hilltops—"temple hills"—and "school houses in the valleys," but colleges and universities were also provided. Now, since such large numbers of adults of people of foreign speech are coming to the valley, "and," added he, "I am for that second school house, where English, correct American ideals and the leading facts of American history may be taught to our coming citizens of foreign birth."

Rev. Cleland is field secretary of an organization for counter-propaganda in mill and mine, organized some years ago.

PLAYGROUNDS ASSURED

School Board Grants Use of Fourth Ward Lot to Culture Club.

The school board this morning granted permission to the Woman's Culture club to use the old Fourth ward school grounds for a playground. The apparatus is to be put up by the club and the ground will be graded and put into condition by the school board.

The women's club has already secured permission to use the apparatus purchased several years ago by city council and a playground for the city this summer is now a certainty. The play will be under the direction of a supervisor to be provided by the Culture club. Work on the grading and erection of apparatus will begin in the early summer.

The school board also granted permission to the Connellsville Independent baseball team for the use of Fayette field as a playing ground. This permission is subject to the consent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, owner of the property.

The team, now practically assured, will be asked to provide the school board with a playing schedule by May 1 in order that no conflict in dates with any other event to be staged at the field during the summer will occur.

The management of the team will also be asked to erect a grandstand in such a position that the racing track which now circles the field, will not be damaged.

The young "preachers" preached great world doctrine and inspired the audience. They were Ralph Black, Thomas Krieger, Hugs Colborn, Arjay Brown, Carrie J. Mariet, Marie Grima and Gladys Krieger.

SOME REGULATIONS RELATING TO FUEL STILL IN EFFECT

Contracts Must Still Be Made Subject to Federal Control.

PRESIDENT CAN CANCEL

Or Terminate Them at Any Time; But Effectiveness is Subject to the Decisions in Cases Brought to Test President's Power Under Lever Act.

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Although fixed prices for coal and coke and control of distribution were removed by the President's order, effective last Thursday, the producers and sellers of these fuels should bear in mind the two regulations of the Fuel Administration still remain in effect.

The first order which is left in effect is an old order of Dr. Garfield's requiring contracts to stipulate that the agreement is subject to Federal price control, diversion and requisition by the United States Fuel Administrator and to cancellation and termination by the President of the United States Fuel Administrator, at any time. That order reads as follows:

"Every contract for the sale of coal or coke made by an operator, producer, jobber, sales agent or purchasing agent of coal or coke shall provide that the price of such shipment shall not exceed the price at the mine or the place of production, as established by the President, or by the United States Fuel Administrator, for the particular coal or coke to be shipped, and in effect at the date of shipment; provided, however, that every such contract made by a jobber, sales agent or purchasing agent may provide for the addition to the price aforesaid of a margin or commissions which shall not exceed on any shipment the permissible margin or commission allowed, at the date of such shipment, to said jobber, sales agent, or purchasing agent under the orders of the President or of the United States Fuel Administrator then in force.

"Every such contract shall provide that the same shall be forthwith cancelled and of no further binding effect upon either party thereto, upon receipt of a request or order from the United States Fuel Administrator for such cancellation, and that in case of such cancellation neither party to the contract shall be under any further liability to the other thereunder and that neither shall have any claim against the United States by reason of such contract or the cancellation thereof.

"Every such contract shall provide that the coal or coke deliverable thereunder shall be subject to requisition by the United States Fuel Administrator or his representatives, including under the term 'requisition' the right to divert such coal or coke to any other party than the purchaser named in the contract; that such requisition may be made at any time during the continuance of the contract and prior to actual receipt and unloading of the coal or coke so requisitioned, at the point of ultimate destination by the person entitled thereto under the terms of the contract; that such requisition shall be made at the going government price in effect at the date of shipment, for the particular shipment of coal or coke so requisitioned, or, if on the date of such shipment there is no going government price for the coal or coke so requisitioned, then at the price at which such shipment has been consigned by the shipper thereof, and without other or further liability of the government or the requisitioner to either party to the contract than the payment of the price determined as hereinbefore in this paragraph provided, and transportation and other like charges paid as aforesaid.

All contracts for the sale of coal or coke are subject to cancellation and termination at any time by the President or by the United States Fuel Administrator.

The effectiveness of the foregoing order is, of course, subject to the decision of the courts in the various cases which are now pending to ascertain the legality of the exercise of power by the President under the Lever Law since October 30, 1919.

The second order left in effect is the executive order of February 25, 1920, by which the President re-established the Tidewater Coal Exchange. That order remains in full force and effect until midnight of the 30th day of April, 1920.

Connellsville also is proud to have the good fortune of hearing her on Thursday evening, April 15, when she will sing in the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Junior Organized Bible class. Her natural voice of beautiful quality is admirably developed and controlled, thanks to the eminent Alfred Fueser-Keith of London, under whom she was prepared for the concert stage. Rosa Hamilton's premiere appearance in Pittsburgh was on the evening of April 12, 1918, in Carnegie Music hall, when she appeared in a joint recital with Hans Kindler, solo cellist with the Philadelphia orchestra. Cut flowers and evergreens formed the decorations. About fifty guests from Scottsdale and nearby towns were present. The bride is one of the most popular members of Scottsdale's younger social set. The bridegroom is one of Scottsdale's young men who served with honor with the 118th Infantry in France and since his return from overseas has been located in New Mexico. FIRE DESTROYS BARN

Forest Blaze Also Threatens Coal Tipple Near Dawson.

Wood fires caused considerable damage in the St. James Park section near Dawson Saturday. One burned the barn on the farm of Mrs. Mary Jane Gilmore, while a second threatened the coal tipple of the H. B. Moore coal mine.

The loss connected with the Gilmore barn was several hundred dollars. No stock was lost but the structure was destroyed. Miners at the Moore plant left the mine and kept the flames away from the tipple. The fires are believed to have been started by sparks from a locomotive.

HOW TO RAISE
BABY CHICKS

Put Avicol in the drinking water.

Most people lose half of every hatch, and seem to expect it. Chick cholera or white diarrhoea is the trouble. The U. S. Government states that over half the chicks hatched die from this cause.

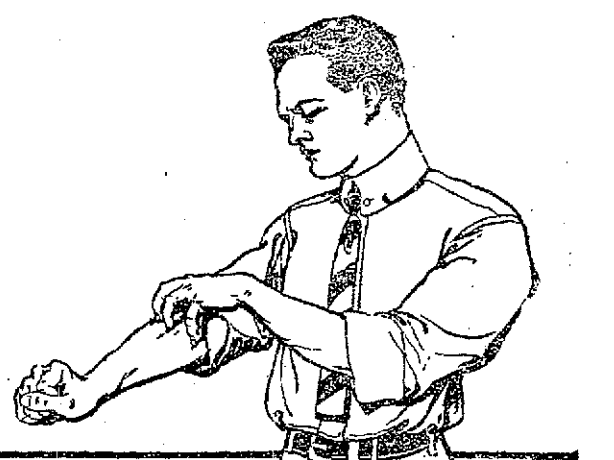

An Avicol tablet, placed in the drinking water, will positively save your little chicks from all such diseases. Inside of 48 hours the sick ones will be as lively as crickets. Avicol keeps them healthy and makes them grow and develop.

Mrs. Vannie Blackey, R. F. D. 3, St. Paul, O., writes: "I had 30 chicks and they all died but 32. Then I commenced on Avicol and haven't lost any since. They have grown wonderfully."

It costs nothing to try Avicol. If you don't find that it prevents and promptly cures white diarrhoea, chick cholera and all bowel diseases of poultry, tell us and your money will be refunded by return mail. Avicol is sold by most druggists and poultry remedy dealers, or you can send 50¢ of five today for a package by mail postpaid. Burck-Dunger Co., 320 Columbia St., Indianapolis, Ind.

FATE OF LIBRARY AT SCOTSDALE IS UP TO THE PUBLIC

Quarters in School Building
Not Available After
August 1.

TAX LEVY BEING DISCUSSED

Law Requires, However, That It Be Put Up to the People First; Institution Recognized By All Who Know
as Most Worthy Easter Services.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, April 5.—After August 1, 1920, the public library will not be accommodated in the public school building, due to the fact that the place
it occupies is necessary for school purposes. At the last meeting of the school board the trustees of the library were asked to vacate at the expiration of the present contract, August 1. What will be done to take of the library has not been determined by the trustees. Rev. J. L.
Hutchinson, B. F. Keister and J. A.
Barnhart.

Ten years ago A. L. Keister gave the public library to Scottdale and kept it up until his death and since that time the library has been supported by the estate. The Keisters, however, had only arranged to look after the library while it was in the high school building. The chamber of commerce at the beginning of the year appointed a committee to work on the housing plan and support of the library. So far nothing has been done. The library can be supported by a mill or so of the taxes, according to the law, but this must be voted on by the people.

The library is an asset to the community. Anyone can convince himself by visiting the institution. Students come from as far as Youngwood and Greensburg to prepare essays and debates. It has been proven that Scottdale has better equipped her students than most towns in the county, since practically all of the inter-scholastic debating material was chosen from the local library. The directors wish to work in harmony with the community but some move must be made quickly to get the proposition properly
before the people.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Extraordinary Curative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me.
I had organic troubles and am going through the Change
of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advice any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better.
You can publish this and I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me.—Mrs. MARGARET DAVEY, 1328 N. Alder St., Phila., Pa.
It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial
after all the evidence that is continually being published proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Martha Long and son, Glenn, of Wilkensburg, spent the week end with Mrs. Robert Foust.

Miss Emma Miller spent Friday in Wilkensburg.

BURNED BY EXPLOSION

Miner Seriously Hurt When Dynamite
Charge Goes Off.

After waiting half an hour for a charge of dynamite to explode, William Baker, a miner at the Purnell & Rush Coal company's mine near Cr-sina, thought the mine was dead and went back to drill another hole beside the first one. Almost immediately the dynamite went off, severely burning his face and lacerating his face and breast, the latter being filled with minute particles of coal driven through the skin by the force of the blast.

The injured man was taken to the A.G.

Frantz hospital at Confluence where he was given medical attention.

MONDAY-EVENING, APRIL 5, 1920

MONEY COST OF ACCIDENTS.

Until Superintendent Boyd of the Trotter and Adelaide plants of the H.
C. Brick Coke company reduced to plain figures the money cost of accidents, and its relation to the cost of living, as presented in his address at the recent safety rally of the workers at these plants, it is very probable that little consideration had been given to this phase of casualties in the industries.

To know that 10,300 fatal and 745, 500 non-fatal accidents in the state of Pennsylvania in the year 1917 cost approximately $173,000,000 for compensation, medical attendance, loss in earnings, labor strain, over administration of accident, and other expenses, will make it possible to apply a concrete measure to accidents as one of the factors in the cost of living.
At the same time it should serve as a means of arousing attention to the importance of the necessity of a reduction of the hazards of employment in the industries.

What is to be remembered that all the contributions to these casualties must in the last analysis be paid by the taxpayers of the state, and thereby be added to the other burdens of the costs of living. We ought to have a still more intense interest in every effort and measure intended to make the daily tasks of living a less fruitful cause for both temporary and permanent disabilities or loss of life. But on a still more important and higher ground than saving money or reducing taxes or the expenses of living, we should be most vitaly concerned in saving human life and preventing impairment of the earning power of workers for the sake of the workers and those dependent upon them. If, therefore, an amount equivalent to the cost of accidents were successfully applied to preventing them we should not feel that any extra burden had been laid upon us.
Rather should we regard it as one of the best and wisest investments.

FREE PUBLIC SERVICE OF NEWSPAPERS.

There is so much of truth and timeliness in an article published in a recent issue of the "house organ" of the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia, respecting the public service rendered by newspapers, that The Courier deems it proper to reprint it almost in its entirety
as follows:

"When cities reckon up the assets
they possess, they count their couriers,
railroads, stores, banks, homes, clubs,
parks, theatres, churches, gas plants,
water, electric, and telephone, and usually overlook the newspapers, which which, if properly managed, would come near the top of the list."

"There is never a single copy of any paper printed any day of the year that does not contain from one to twenty thousand other people's news or editorial statements, either printed or written for the common welfare, from which the paper directly or indirectly receives not a penny of profit."

"The people never expect a shipyard to do anything but build ships. A journalist's 'house organ' is a daily
when it constructs a railway engine, a factory, a mill, a clothing factory,
bank, store, hotel, road, and telephone
line, and is not expected to give its time
service to the public by publishing
any other news or editorial statements."

"But a newspaper has done of requests every day to print or to write, to construct a railway engine, a
factory, a mill, a clothing factory,
bank, store, hotel, road, and telephone
line, and is not expected to give its time
service to the public by publishing
any other news or editorial statements."

"The magazine tries to obtain and does obtain circulation by interesting its readers, and to give advertisements to publishers. It publishes no fiction, no Armstrong appeals for the support of hospitals and colleges, makes no demonstration for saving babies, availing itself of the fact that those who publish daily newspapers, community are asked to help."

"Every newspaper publisher knows
there is another circulation in a financial gain in each paper, yet they all do it."

"So the newspaper gives more of its service free than almost any other industry that is not an industry."

The Courier makes no boast of the service it has given in behalf of every agency and project which promotes the welfare of Conneltsville and vicinity. It has merely regarded such service as a duty and of greater importance than gain that might otherwise have been made.

We ought to be less concerned about what accounts cost us in dollars than
what accounts cost us in dollars than
what accounts cost us in dollars than

Having brought about such an amazing reduction in the costs of food stuffs, clothing, meat, sugar and other articles, it will no doubt be a very easy job for Attorney General Palmer to bring the cost of coal down to a pre-war level.

We venture the prediction that Will
S. Anderson, chief clerk in Vice President Mitchell's office at the West Penn, will remember April 5, 1920.

It is not very likely that Company D will ever have to participate in another engagement resulting in such heavy casualties as occurred during the "Battle of Thompson Station," hence no young man need hesitate on that score to enlist.

The opinion voiced in certain feminine circles yesterday was that the weatherman was "too timid for anything."

One of the big Chicago mail order houses is said to have made earnings
during the past year, that would enable it to pay a dividend of 25 to 30 per cent on its $75,000,000 common stock and still have $3,000,000 left for surplus. Evidently all of the profiteering is being done in Conneltsville, as some persons allege.

Soldiers, "Saviors of Their Country" in War; Grifters Now if They Ask for Pay

By A. Wounded Soldier.

It is the same old story in the same old way. When trouble is brewing, when the war clouds form and when the actual sound of the enemy's artillery is heard, the soldier is the hero and the country is back of him to a man. (Yes, back of him.) No sacrifice that the people at home can make is too great. They eat corn-bread, go without wheat and even meat one day in the week. They do not even complain when the government levies an excess profits tax, and call upon the millionaires to donate a few dollars to help send the soldiers over the seas to fight for them.

Who can forget the promises that were made by an overzealous press,
that our soldiers would be only too well cared for upon their return? Or the tales of the contrast between the returned veteran and the (then) despised slacker.

What has been done? We were given a paltry $50 and turned out, to find that on account of the advanced prices and the prosperity of the slacker, the banker and the country at large, we could not even stretch the $50 far enough to buy a civilian uniform.

Recently several bills have been prepared and presented to Congress favoring some class of relief, or rather of back pay, to the soldiers, who, on account of their patriotism, sacrificed their all.

These bills, the organizations that hacked them and both soldiers who favor some kind of remuneration and even those who don't, have been subjected to the severest condemnation.
In the newspapers such words as graters and extorters and others are used to describe the "used-to-be"
heroes.

What class of men from the biggest bankers and the largest stockholders to the lowest-paid laborers, did not increase their earning power during the war, and after, due to and directly resulting from the American soldiers sacrificing their lives and their capital to what they believed to be and what was right?

Because they did a patriotic deed,
are they debarrred from receiving full pay or obtaining a just reward while striking slackers of shipyards and many other industries were encouraged by the granting of their demands for a living wage, (example, $33 was paid, negro riveters for a day's work,
and is being still paid)?

To-day that a post-mortem request for a just aid detracts from the glory of those who fought, bled and died
"over there" is worthy only of a slacker
nation, and not of the United States of America, who even at present is loaning millions to help the starved peoples of many nations and is the creditor of every large country on the face of the globe.

The United States has loaned a total of $9,646,319,494.84 to various nations and $4,277,000,000 to Great Britain alone, yet, according to some, the paying of a just reward to her soldiers will hamper her credit, cause her bonds to decline and result in a general panic. And not so long ago it will be remembered that many were clam-oring for the above-mentioned loans to be made gifts because of the financial conditions of those countries.

But the American soldier is declared a grifter by an ungrateful country when he asks for as fair a start as the slacker who stayed at home received.

Children of Plains Sing to Accompaniment of Dinner Bells Sounding by Baptist Missionary

This Swiss bell ringer isn't an itinerant vaudeville artist, even though the youngsters are so intensely interested. He is a Baptist colporteur missionary and is playing Gospel Hymns on his chimney bells. The school house is away off on a Colorado ranch and the children are mighty glad to see "Daddy" Hooper. As part of the New World Movement of the Northern Baptists for which a $100,000,000 drive will be staged April 25 to May 2, many more colporters will be sent out to serve the greatly neglected areas of the United States.

BOY O' MINE.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, this is my
prayer for you.
This is my dream and my thought and
my care for you:
Strong be the spirit which dwells in
the breast of you,
Never may folly or shame get the best
of you.
You shall be tempted in funded
security,
But make no choice that is stained with impurity.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, time shall command of you Thought from the brain of you, work
from the hand of you;
Voices of pleasure shall whisper and
call to you.
Luring you far from the hard tasks
that fall to you:
Then as you're meeting life's bitterest
test of men,
God grant you strength to be true as the best of men.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, singing your way along,
Cling to your laughter and cheerfully
play along:
Kind to your neighbor be, offer your hand to him,
You shall grow great as your heart
shall expand to him;
But when for victory sweet you are fighting there,
Know that your record of life you are writing there.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, this is my
prayer for you:
Never may shame men one line of despair for you.
Never may conquest or glory mean all
to you.
Cling to your honor whatever shall fall
to you.
Rather than victory, rather than fame
to you.
Choose to be true and let nothing
bring shame to you.

George Hoffer, Seven Years Old, Traeger, Victim of Accident.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL IS OBSERVED

Easter Music and Communion Features of Sunday in the Churches of Mount Pleasant; Merchant Frustrate Robbery of His Establishment

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 5.—While George Hoffer, seven years old, son of George A. Hoffer of Traeger, was playing with a dynamite cap on Saturday he had three fingers on his left hand so badly torn that amputation was necessary at the Memorial hospital.

Easter Services. Sunday prayer meeting was held at the Re-Union Presbyterian church yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. Special services were held both morning and evening.

At the Church of God special services were held, with baptism in the morning and the washing of feet in the evening.

At the Lutheran church special services were held, with an Easter cantata in charge of Mrs. Frank Cooper rendered in the afternoon.

The United Brethren church received a number of members. Baptism and communion, with special music by the choir, assisted by Andrew Schwartz on the violin, took up morning services. Vesper services were held at 4:30.

Communion was observed at the Reformed church.

Burglary Frustrated.

On Friday evening Mr. Jacobs, proprietor of the Jacobs' furnishing store on Main street, coming past the store shortly after 11 o'clock noticed the light which he had left burning was out. Investigation showed that some persons had been committing wholesale robbery of the place. A lot of goods were packed ready to carry off. Some suits of men's clothes had already been taken. Entrance was gained from the rear of the store.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Let Less Meat and Take Salts for Backache or Bladder Trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. —Adv.

RELIEF FOR SERVICE MEN IS FAVORED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Will Probably Include Cash Bonus to be Raised by Tax on Luxuries or Sales of Merchandise, etc.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Soldier relief legislation, with probable provision for a cash bonus, funds for which would be raised by sales of luxuries taxes, approved by the House Ways and Means committee. Details of the bill to be recommended will be worked out by sub-committees to be appointed Monday.

Members of the committee hope to obtain final action by the House before the contemplated recess for the national political conventions, but they express doubt when action by the Senate could be had at this session.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, said he thought future legislation would include a bill to give money bonus to former service men, with provisions for a special tax to raise the necessary funds. The program approved by the House committee declares against any bond issue.

While the exact form of the legislation was not decided upon, committee discussion was held to have indicated approval of a plan of extending vocational education as an alternative to the cash bonus. These two plans are a part of the American Legion's program. Its other selected plan of government aid to soldiers and sailors for building homes or obtaining ownership of farms were said by some members of the committee to involve too many difficulties to be worked out by legislation before the recess.

Spokesmen for the committee said it was planned to have the final draft of the legislation ready for submission to the House within a fortnight. As no decision was made as to the amount of the bonus, no estimate of funds needed could be made. The program is understood to have the approval of the Republican leaders of the House.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets: the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping action or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT OF

BASEBALL FANS NEEDED

Today the officials of the Connellsville Independents will be in a busy group of men. Negotiations will be completed to get Fayette field into playing shape, the arranging for seating accommodations and other details. That the locals will have one of the strongest teams ever gotten together in this section of the woods, there is no doubt. A coup that will materially strengthen the pitching department was that of inducing Randolph, the crack pitcher of Dickerson Run, to join an Independent uniform. This was settled Saturday night when the twirler came home to spend Easter. With the assurance of Frank Horne on the sash, the team has an excellent chance of stopping any team it meets up with.

A response from the business men to increase the fund so that the Connellsville patrons of the game can witness the games in some degree of comfort is expected. The money on hand is far from sufficient. These that will contribute should realize that while the stands and field will be used for baseball this season, there will be football games of the local high school to be played this fall, for which the stands that will now be erected will be used, also for other games.

BASEBALL

One of the first baseball teams to get out on the field in this vicinity for practice will be the fast Trotter team. Weather permitting they will indulge in practice this afternoon. The Trotter team starts their season under very favorable circumstances, having now uniforms from last year that were delivered too late to be used, also having over $50 in the treasury from last year.

The Emerson Independents, whose entry to the ball teams of this vicinity was recently issued through these columns, will be accommodated by the Trotter club.

BASKETBALL

At the parochial hall on Wednesday evening the fast St. Vincent team of basketball toppers play in the last big game of the season with the local Casey club. The Casey club is going strong and will endeavor to wipe out the defeat the collegians have over the locals. In a preliminary game "Em" Hicks' South Side Prep will play the best team that can be secured to meet them. After the game there is to be a dance.

Elmer ("Far") Carroll, West-Jeff's all-star basketball player, passed through here Saturday on his way to Scotland, after the season's ball playing. Questioned as to his opinion of Hume, C. H. S. all-star who played opposite "Far" in the Scotland game, Carroll said: "Hume is an exceptionally fine player, one of the best I ever played against. With a little more weight he should prove to be one of the biggest stars of next year."

BOWLING

The annual tournament of the Southern Duckpin association will be held on the club alleys, Pittsburg, this week, beginning Tuesday and ending Thursday evening. The Monroeville five bowling team of this city, scheduled to participate in the contest, according to Stella Hauser, captain of the team, but the names of the team fail to appear in the entry list. Hauser claims that, due to an error, the team's names were omitted, but that they will roll on Wednesday or Thursday. The team is composed of Stella Hauser, Bobby Wilson, Joe Ross, Frank Coland, John Opperman and Billy Burkhard.

Bobby Wilson, considered the best bowler this city ever produced, has been suffering with a wrenched back, which has been causing him to be out of his game. Bobby is being treated by a specialist and will be in good shape for the Pittsburg tourney.

If the local Manhattan five fails to get into the big tournament, there will be a bunch of roustabouts around here in bowling circles, as the locals figured on being one, two or three in the money.

The Seales' team won two out of three games from Dickerson Run Friday evening. The season will close on Friday evening. Dickerson Run rolls the Roundhouse on Tuesday evening. Dawson and the Seales teams will be the final contestants Friday night. Dickerson Run has won the cup, and Dawson is now three games behind the Seales. If Dawson wins three games from the Seales Friday it will mean a second place. After the game Friday night the Y. M. C. A. will give a banquet to the members of the four teams.

TRACK AND FIELD

With a group of 30 youngsters already trying for the C. H. S. track and field team, six more students, Duggan, Bush, Hammon, Henry, Levine, and May, will join Coach Jack Hall's squad of athletes to try for the team. After Easter days are over Hall will get down to business to get the boys in shape for the events best suited for them. He intends to take them out to Fayette field after each afternoon's school session and put them through a rigid course of training, from which he will select the team. Principal B. B. Smith said it only two or three boys warrant it, he would enter them in the big N. P. I. A. League in Pittsburg.

TENNIS

A meeting of the Connellsville Tennis association will be held on Wednesday evening at the association's headquarters in the Title & Trust building.

MARKLETON HOSPITAL IN NEED OF MANY THINGS FOR PATIENTS

There is further need of many articles for the patients at the government hospital at Markleton, according to Secretary Walter P. Schenck of the Fayette county chapter of the Red Cross. Says Mr. Schenck:

"The Fayette county Red Cross wishes to call attention to an article appearing in the county press recently relative to the contribution of phonograph records, books, magazines, games and musical instruments for the use of disabled soldiers and sailors at the Public Health Service hospital at Markleton. Some contributions have already been made, but it is felt there are many other persons throughout the county who have some of the above named articles that no longer have use for and they would be greatly appreciated and put to splendid use by these disabled service men.

"Because of the close proximity of this hospital to Fayette county every citizen should feel it a duty to see that the little luxuries and amusements are provided which government regulations make no provision for.

"The patients at this hospital are among those who suffered most because of their service to their country and are justly entitled to the best treatment and care that can be given. Articles may be sent direct by express or parcel post and in every instance should be prepaid, but the Red Cross will gladly stand the expense connected with such shipments.

"The Red Cross chapter headquarters should also be furnished with a list of all articles sent in order that a complete report can be compiled and published."

Billy Carter

Carter's many followers have been asking the boy when he is going to box again. This Carter cannot answer simply because no one will meet him. Among the boys who do not want any of his game are Johnny Donnelly, Johnny Kink, Barney McGuire, Ray Pryel and a host of lesser lights. Overtures and inducements to get these boys to box Carter have brought flat refusals, practically admitting that Billy is too much for them.

Carter, whose weight is 135 to 140 pounds is open to box anyone at that weight. He is without a doubt the best boy in this section of the state.

BOXING

At Cumberland the other night fell Arthur Stigall, a boxer who claims to be a light-weight, met and was defeated by Alex Gibbons of New York in a 12-round bout. Stigall insisted that he be introduced as the "Colored light-weight champion." The claims of this ebony-lured mil singer is the most absurd that any boxer has of present-day made. The light-weight poundage is as a rule, 135 pounds. Stigall positively cannot make under 150 pounds a week before a bout, let alone on the day of the contest, yet he makes his opponents weigh in around the real light-weight limit, and to insure himself that the boy whom he is to box will not be over that weight, he will also post a weight forfeit to weigh what he insists his opponents do. He merely goes through this performance to get an advantage of 15 to 25 pounds, thereby willingly losing

With the doctor summoned and the police sent for, there seemed to be little else for us to do but wait, so Wick and I sat down together in the rear sitting room with the elevator boy still on guard at the door.

"Who was Miss Lutan?" I asked. "Why, Daisy Lutan, the actress," said Mr. Wick in surprise. "I supposed every one knew her."

"I've heard about her," I hastened to say, "but I had no idea that she lived in the Granddeck. Did she live here alone?"

"She keeps a maid, an old woman that has been with her for years."

"Where's the maid tonight?"

"Out to the movies, I s'pose. That's where she goes every night when Miss Lutan isn't playing. When she is, she goes to the theater with her."

"Then Miss Lutan is not playing now?"

"Not for the last month."

"Had there been any one here with her tonight?"

"I'll ask the elevator boy."

"John says she came in alone about fifteen minutes ago," said Mr. Wick when he came back. "She went out about seven. Her own chauffeur was driving her then, but when she came back she was in a hired taxi. That's something I can't understand."

"How do you suppose the murderer escaped?"

I was trying every avenue of questioning to see if I could not surprise Wick into some damaging admission. I was beginning to suspect that he knew far more about Miss Lutan's murderer than he was telling. I felt somehow that his whole search for the man who had killed Miss Lutan had been entirely perfunctory, a bluff to deceive me. In my growing dislike for the man, I felt that it would not be beyond the range of probability for Wick to have been standing guard at the door while a confederate rifled the apartment.

"I'm no detective," he answered non-committally. "All I know is that he has gone. He certainly isn't here in the apartment."

It was on the tip of my tongue to suggest that we look in the secret passageway. I felt that the shock it would be to Wick to learn that I knew about this might lead him to open his lips. I felt certain that it was by way of a similar passageway to the one I had discovered in my room that the murderer had escaped. But before I could make up my mind to speak the doctor arrived.

He made a hasty inspection and then said tersely:

"There's nothing here for me to do. This woman has been dead for some time."

"How long?" I asked.

"It is impossible for me to judge—maybe twenty minutes, perhaps an hour. I should say that death was practically instantaneous. She was killed by a bullet penetrating the heart. Who shot her?"

He looked sharply from me to Mr. Wick, as if suspecting that it might have been one of us.

"A burglar got her just a few minutes ago," Mr. Wick explained. "Mr. Nelson and me heard a scream and a shot. We let ourselves in here with my pass key and found her here. It must have been a burglar that she surprised when she entered the apartment."

"It looks like it," assented the physician. "There are marks on her throat where he tried to strangle her screams. Have you notified the police?"

"Yes," said Mr. Wick.

"There's nothing more that I can do, then," said the doctor, making his preparations to depart.

"Would you not wait until the police come?" suggested the superintendent.

"Very well," said the doctor. "I'll wait."

As we waited the three of us chatted about the crime and about the dead actress. From the conversation I learned that at the height of her meteoric career on Broadway Daisy Lutan had become the wife of the young son of a very rich family. His parents insisted that she had trapped him into matrimony and after long legal wrangling she had been divorced about a year ago. She had received a large sum in settlement, and this with her earnings as an actress enabled her to live in luxury.

"Haven't she a sweetheart now?" I asked.

"Better make it plural," sneered the doctor. "Women of her type always have a lot of men friends."

"No men ever came to see her here. I'm positive of that," said Mr. Wick.

"Of course not," said the doctor sarcastically. "The reputation of the Granddeck apartments must be protected at all costs."

As we talked two detectives in plain clothes arrived. They viewed the body and proceeded to question the doctor.

"How was this woman killed?"

"By a revolver shot right through the heart."

"Who is she?"

"Daisy Lutan, the actress."

"Who did it?"

"It must have been a burglar," interjected Mr. Wick. "My theory is that she came in unexpectedly and found him at work."

"Who found her?"

"These gentlemen," said the doctor, including both Mr. Wick and me with a wave of his hand.

The detectives turned to Mr. Wick first.

"Tell us about it," one of them directed.

"My name is James Wick," he began as if he was reciting a familiar lesson. "I am the superintendent of the Granddeck apartments. I was in the elevator about half an hour ago when I heard a woman screaming and then the sound of the shot. I took out my revolver and got off at this floor to investigate. At the door I found Mr. Nelson. He, too, had heard the screams and the shot and thought they came from this apartment. I took out my pass key and we went in."

"Were there any signs of the burglar?" asked the other man.

"No, we looked all through the apartment and found no one."

"Was anything missing?"

I waited with bated breath to hear if Wick would tell of having found the wall safe open. If he did not I felt it would be conclusive evidence that there was something he was trying to conceal.

"I didn't notice anything missing," he said glibly. "I wouldn't know, anyhow. I don't know what stuff she had here."

"Who would know?"

"Her maid might. She's out now. Generally, she's home by eleven o'clock."

"Did she keep only the one servant?"

"Only the maid and a chauffeur."

"Then she was all alone in the apartment?"

"Yes. She'd gone out all dressed up about seven in her own car. She came home unexpectedly in a hired taxi not more than half an hour ago."

"Sure she was alone. At least the hall boys told me so. I did not see her come in, myself."

More and more I was convinced that Wick was lying. I was sure he knew far more about affairs than he was admitting. Why did he keep harping on the fact that Miss Lutan had come in "unexpectedly"? What means had he of knowing what time she was expected home? Furthermore he said he was in the elevator when he heard the screams and the shot. I did not believe it would have been possible for the sounds to have carried that far. The walls were all deadened, and the room where the tragedy had taken place was at the back of the house many feet distant from the elevators. I wondered if the burglar had not been in the place with Mr. Wick's connivance, while he stood guard outside. As he heard me cotling he might have taken refuge in the elevator. And why did he have his revolver so conveniently ready?

The detective who had been questioning Wick turned to me.

"Who are you?"

"Spalding Nelson."

"What do you do? Where do you work?"

"I'm a clerk."

"A clerk living at the Granddeck apartments?" he sneered. "You must have a good job."

"I haven't any at present," I replied. "I'm living here in Mr. Gorton's apartment, taking care of it while he and his wife are away."

"I could see that my statement that I was only a clerk and was not at present employed had not made a favorable impression on the detective."

"Will you explain what you were doing at the door of this apartment when the superintendent arrived?" he demanded with a growing suspicion in his tones.

"That's easy to explain," I retorted

At the door I found Mr. Nelson. He, too, had heard the screams and the shot and thought they came from this apartment. I took out my pass key and we went in."

"Were there any signs of the burglar?" asked the other man.

"No, we looked all through the apartment and found no one."

"Was anything missing?"

I waited with bated breath to hear if Wick would tell of having found the wall safe open. If he did not I felt it would be conclusive evidence that there was something he was trying to conceal.

"I didn't notice anything missing," he said glibly. "I wouldn't know, anyhow. I don't know what stuff she had here."

"Who would know?"

"Her maid might. She's out now. Generally, she's home by eleven o'clock."

"Did she keep only the one servant?"

"Only the maid and a chauffeur."

"Then she was all alone in the apartment?"

"Yes. She'd gone out all dressed up about seven in her own car. She came home unexpectedly in a hired taxi not more than half an hour ago."

More and more I was convinced that Wick was lying. I was sure he knew far more about affairs than he was admitting. Why did he keep harping on the fact that Miss Lutan had come in "unexpectedly"? What means had he of knowing what time she was expected home? Furthermore he said he was in the elevator when he heard the screams and the shot. I did not believe it would have been possible for the sounds to have carried that far. The walls were all deadened, and the room where the tragedy had taken place was at the back of the house many feet distant from the elevators. I wondered if the burglar had not been in the place with Mr. Wick's connivance, while he stood guard outside. As he heard me cotling he might have taken refuge in the elevator. And why did he have his revolver so conveniently ready?

The detective who had been questioning Wick turned to me.

"Who are you?"

"Spalding Nelson."

"What do you do? Where do you work?"

"I'm a clerk."

"A clerk living at the Granddeck apartments?" he sneered. "You must have a good job."

"I haven't any at present," I replied. "I'm living here in Mr. Gorton's apartment, taking care of it while he and his wife are away."

"I could see that my statement that I was only a clerk and was not at present employed had not made a favorable impression on the detective."

"Will you explain what you were doing at the door of this apartment when the superintendent arrived?" he demanded with a growing suspicion in his tones.

"That's easy to explain," I retorted

"I was in my apartment directly over this one. I heard her screaming and then the shot. It seemed to come from the floor right below me, so I ran down to investigate."

"Is that right?" he asked, turning to Mr. Wick.

"I guess so," said Wick. "That's where his room is. He's only been here in the Granddeck a few days. I don't know much about him."

"And that's all you know about it?" said the detective, turning to me again.

I hesitated. Should I or should I not tell them of the wall safe that I had seen Mr. Wick closing? There was no way I could prove it. Undoubtedly Wick would deny having done so. As superintendent his word would undoubtedly carry. I decided it would be best to withhold my information to a more propitious time.

"That's all I know, except what Mr. Wick has told you," I said.

"Very well," said the detective in charge. "You can go now, and you, too, Doctor."

Mr. Wick was escorting the doctor to the door. The detectives had withdrawn to the room where the body lay and were holding a whispered conference. I stepped quickly to the wall safe, and making sure that I was unobserved, tested the knob. It was securely fastened. I congratulated myself on having said nothing about it. Wick, I felt certain, would deny having shut it, and there was no proof that it had been opened when we had entered.

As I returned to my own apartment upstairs, bearing the top of the short flight of steps between the floors, I was astounded to see a female figure sitting across the hall and entering the Bradford apartment. Though I had opportunity for only a brief glimpse, I recognized her at once. It was Claire Bradford.

The door of my apartment was standing wide open. I remembered that as I had run downstairs a few moments ago, I had neglected to close it after me. From the direction in which she had come, it was plain that Claire Bradford had been paying another surreptitious visit to my quarters. What could have been her purpose? There must have been some strong impelling motive to make her dare the perilous journey along the window ledge, and now, at the imminent risk of discovery, to pay me a second visit. I began seriously to doubt whether the explanation she had offered me was the true one. I was beginning to feel that there was more than a possibility that she was again in the clutches of the unscrupulous rascal who had once been her husband.

Greatly puzzled, I made a hasty survey of the apartment, but could find nothing that appeared to have been disturbed. Going back to my own room, I hastened to place a handkerchief out of my window as a signal to Barbara, for I knew she would be anxious to know the meaning of the sounds we had heard below. In a very few moments I heard the tap of her riding crop on my sill and hurried to answer.

"What was it?" she asked in an excited whisper.

"Daisy Lutan, an actress, who lived on the floor below, has been murdered—shot."

"Who did it?"

"I don't know. Mr. Wick and I went into the apartment together. There was no one there."

"How terrible!" she exclaimed.

"It is, indeed," I answered, "but it may help us."

"What do you mean?"

"With the police in the house making investigations, there'll be no more threats from the blackmailers for a while. They won't dare bother you for the present."

"Do you really think so?" she questioned with a little sigh of relief.

"I'm sure of it."

"Have the police been called in?"

"Yes; two detectives are downstairs now."

"I'm glad," she said. "With the detectives here, they won't dare molest us, will they?"

"Of course not," I answered. "Is your sister at home?"

"Yes," she answered. "Our guests have just gone. Mother has retired, and Claire is in the living room writing a note. They heard nothing, so I did not tell them anything about it."

"That was wise. They'll hear it soon enough. Has your sister been in the apartment all evening?"

"She hasn't been out all day unless she went out just to drop the letter she was writing down the mail chute in the hall. Why do you ask?"

"I was merely wondering if there was any way she could learn of the murder."

"How could she? Isn't that too terrible about Miss Lutan? But I mustn't talk any longer. Good night."

"Wait a moment," I cried. "There are some things I must discuss with you before I meet Gorman. How about meeting me at the Astor at eleven?"

"I can't promise, but I'll try. Good night!"

"LISTEN LESTER"—A big musical comedy success, with the entire New York cast, chorus, production and special orchestra, will be the attraction tonight.

"The user of this expression is myriad, he is as a prince to advise, good or bad; to some remark which requires strict attention on the part of the listener; or simply as an exclamation, it is originated by Harry L. Cort, George E. Stoddard and Harold Orlieb. In the case of this play Lester listens to any number of people, from Arbutus, a "live wire," to the faintest, dullest of choruses, including a dip hotel clerk, an artfully jolting colonel, a female detective and a pair of lovers all of whom are bent on a search for some letters which are of great importance to certain parties. But Lester himself is well worth listening to for his conversation is snappy and entertaining, the astounding gorgeous, the crop of melo-drama, the good folks being very, very good and the bad folks very, very bad. The dramatic complications supply the story with constant physical action and include an anarchistic attempt on the life of a governor of an eastern state, and the efforts of a brutal young farmer to force Judy to become his wife after he has wronged her supposed sister. Orlieb is a mystery about Judy's birth, which is one of the main props of the plot, and her devotion to a little crippled boy may be depended upon to win her an unusual amount of sympathy.
